

Top Ten Reasons Scholarship (Humor): Create a top ten list of the top ten reasons you should get this scholarship.

1: Never behind, I'm a well-rounded individual with a diverse set of abilities and skills ranging from academic to athletic.

2: Gonna strive to achieve the highest level of knowledge I can as the past three years of high school have taught me the value of education.

3: Give my time and talents. I have given over 500 volunteer hours through various opportunities and programs with 350+ hours coming from my position in a pediatric ward.

4: You hopefully agree that scholarships are designed to reward those who have worked exceedingly hard to achieve academic success and I feel I've put forth unparalleled effort.

5: Up in the ranks of my cross-country team I've become a leader and responsible role model for hard work and success, learning how to lead a group of my peers.

6: Never quitting, I've been apart of my high schools cross-country team as a varsity member for four years and have learned how to follow and respect those above me.

7: Gonna use this money to further my education and provide a future for myself.

8: Let me say, this scholarship may not be about GPA but I have worked to maintain a 4.0 throughout all of high school.

9: You don't think that's enough? I founded a club at my school to bring the community and students together by making it easier for peers to find volunteer opportunities in neighboring areas.

10: Down: the direction you should read every first word in my list.
